- It involves a broad section of the community to ensure the Association’s policies and directions are relevant and sensitive.
- It provides a medium to inform the public regarding mental health issues.
- It provides a source of volunteers for the Association’s broad range of activities. The informed citizen is more likely to get involved.
- It reflects citizen power in negotiations with government and other institutions.

Membership is available to any citizen, society or company in the Province of Alberta and will not be denied due to economic circumstance or financial hardship
